Safety is the most important aspect of manufacturing, both in production and in the final product itself. This is a statement we can all agree on, but it's also a statement we tend to apply to careers and products deemed dangerous. Mechanics, doctors, electricians, and farmers all deserve safe working environments and tools, but so

There are several types of UL and ULC Marks. Each has its own specific meaning and significance. The only way to determine if a product has been certified by UL or ULC is to look for the UL and /or the ULC Mark on the product itself. In a few instances, the UL or ULC Mark may be present only on the packaging of a product.
