I had Lasik about 4 years ago. Few week after surgery I started to have this weird behind the eye pain. Almost hitting my nose and sinuses. I have been to numerous doctors and no one knows why. They do tell me that my eyes are dry. This pain has been with me day in and day out for four years and I'm going crazy.

LASIK surgery. During LASIK eye surgery, an eye surgeon creates a flap in the cornea (A) — the transparent, dome-shaped surface of the eye that accounts for a large part of the eye's bending or refracting power. Then the surgeon uses a laser (B) to reshape the cornea, which corrects the refraction problems in the eye (C).
